How did studying abroad change you?
I have been much more conscious of American stereotypes and how Americans are viewed by foreigners since I have been home.

What will you always remember from study abroad?
I think the most memorable experiences involved making great friends, enjoying the amazing food, traveling the country, and getting to know this great culture better...This has really opened my eyes in a lot of ways and made me try my hardest to not take things for granted...I think studying abroad has improved my communication and helped me become more comfortable with others and myself.

What would you tell yourself if you did it again?
Don’t be shy. Enter the program with as much confidence as possible. Nobody knows you and this is your chance to really be yourself and get the most out of the experience.
