Sydny's Major: Psychology

Program: UW International Issues in Bioscience FIG

Academic Life: During my spring break study abroad in London, I took classes with the other UW-Madison students on the program. We dove into British culture by attending guest lectures and listening to the perspectives of community members in London. It was a very eye-opening experience.

Housing in London: The hotel we stayed in was located directly in the center of the city making it very convenient to go anywhere in London or Westminster.

Most Memorable Moments: Exploring the museums in London was a great way to see history, art and science firsthand. London is filled with so much history that you will learn new things just by walking down the street.

How Study Abroad Set Sydny Apart: Study abroad has given me a new sense of culture that isn't available to people who haven't left the country. Being in England allowed me to observe and even take part in the lifestyles of others -- an experience that has allowed me to view differences and similarities between cultures more clearly and grow into a more mature human being.

“I learned that I am much more capable than I thought. In London, I was able to do things on my own and go places with confidence.”
